

Course release notes

When you enroll in a course, there's an expectation that the course is up-to-date and relevant. Unfortunately, this isn't given in today's course-creation environment.

We understand how important it is to keep our courses up-to-date, which is exactly why we work hard to ensure that all our courses always offer you relevant content, regardless of when they were first released.

You can see the timeline of updates for our Kubernetes for the Absolute Beginners course below:
